Looking to get more out of your video surveillance system? Try Adding Audio!

Audio can increase security and provide additional verification while seamlessly integrating with your existing system. Many of today's security cameras come equipped with microphone inputs, allowing you to easily add audio, and some even support 2 Way Audio, allowing you to easily communicate from your operations center with anyone near the camera. Increase your situational awareness, add another layer of security, and gain additional incident insight by adding audio to your security system.
